BRIDGE DISASTER

Great Structure Being Built Across the St. Lawrence Falls With Workmen.

FOUR SCORE LIVES LOST

At Least That Many Men Were Carried to Their Death and Dread List May Grow.

Half Section of Giant Bridge Crumpled Up Taking Workmen Down With It.

Quebec, Que., Aug. 30.—A section of the new bridge across the St. Lawrence river five miles below this city, collapsed late yesterday, carrying scores of bridge-workers and mechanics into the water. It is estimated that the loss of life is at least eighty and may exceed that number.

The bridge was about a mile and a half in length and half of it, from the south shore to mid-stream, crumpled up and dropped into the water.

Ninety men were at work on this section of the structure, and the whistle had just blown at 5:30 for the men to quit work for the day, when there came a grinding sound from the bridge mid-stream. The men turned to see what had happened and an instant later the cry went up, "The bridge is falling!"

The men made a rush shoreward, but the distance was too great for them to escape. The fallen section of the bridge dragged others after it, the snapping girders and cables booming like a crash of artillery. Terror lent fleetness to the feet of the frightened workmen as they sped shoreward, but only a few of them reached safety before the last piece of iron work on the south shore was dragged into the river.

Near the shore the wreckage of the bridge did not go below the surface of the water, and eight workmen who remained above water were rescued and taken to the hospital at Levis.

The steamer Glenmont had just cleared the bridge when the first section fell. The water thrown up by the debris came clear over the bridge of the steamer. The captain at once lowered boats. The small boats plied backward and forward over the sunken wreckage for half an hour, but there was no sign of life. The twisted iron and steel had its victims in a terrible death grip. A few floating timbers and the broken strands of the bridge toward the north shore were the only signs that anything unusual had happened. There was not a ripple on the smooth surface of the St. Lawrence as it swept along toward the gulf.

All the men drowned were employees of the Phoenixville Bridge company, and sub-contractors of Quebec and Montreal. The Quebec bridge was begun about seven years ago, and it was to be finished in 1909. Subsidies had been granted by the federal and provincial governments and the city of Quebec, and the estimated cost of the work was $10,000,000.

The Phoenixville Bridge company of Pennsylvania had the contract for the construction of the bridge, and were working from both sides of the river. The southern extension of the bridge, which collapsed, was rapidly near the zenith of the immense steel arch which was to span the river. The Quebec bridge was remarkable in that it was to be the longest single span cantilever bridge in the world, the length of the span in the center being 1,800 feet, or 200 feet longer than that of the Fifth bridge, at present the world's longest single bridge span.

Mrs. B. M. Currie and two children, Mary and Eudaily, returned home Wednesday after spending several weeks at Neboe and other places visiting relatives. The ladies of the Methodist church had the new parsonage furnished and in perfect readiness for Mrs. Currie the afternoon of her arrival. A full course supper was prepared and taken to the parsonage for Rev. and Mrs. Currie that evening by the members of the church.
